LUMA Hotel Times Square recently launched a seasonal photography walk and conversation series with award-winning photographer Grant Legan

Description

LUMA Hotel Times Square is pleased to launch Chasing Light, a new seasonal photography walk and conversation series, led by skilled photographer Grant Legan. This exclusive series will explore the concept of light and photography within the three iconic New York City neighborhoods that intersect at LUMA. Grant will lead an engaging discussion on harnessing light as an inspirational tool in everyday photography. Open to hotel guests and locals, each walk will explore neighboring Times Square, the Garment District, and Bryant Park during the magical “golden hour,” when the city transitions from afternoon to evening, offering a unique opportunity to photograph the city through a captivating light. Grant will lead the conversation around how light plays a huge role in our lives and how he has utilized it in his work, while attendees manipulate light to capture stunning photography of the surrounding skyscrapers, billboards, greenery, and more. The walk will conclude in one of the hotel’s suites overlooking the city, for a final photo-worthy moment from a unique vantage point. LUMA selected Grant based on his striking travel, lifestyle, and fashion photography, which has been highly sought after for commercial and editorial campaigns by top brands like Michael Kors, Elizabeth + James, and Billabong. The hotel was intrigued by his emphasis on exploiting the power of light, which aligns with its core approach to hospitality. LUMA has a passion to bring light into every aspect of the guest experience, from the lobby where guests are welcomed by a large light wall and a ceiling of evolving colorful illuminations, to the light-based art installation inside Ortzi Restaurant. LUMA also strives to light up the City for each of its guests through strategic partnerships with nearby institutions and local personalities within the community.
